

The Guy and the Lady — the Senators Had Eyes for Only One

Amen!

Deacon Brown: "Open? Why, I just dealt."

— SNPA Bulletin

The United States Senate yesterday confirmed 77 to 0 the appointment of Charles E. Wilson as Secretary of Defense. Mr. Wilson, president of General Motors, had voluntarily given up his $600,000-a-year private salary in order to qualify for the $22,500 federal job — but under pressure from the congressional politicians he had to do still more.

They made him sell his 2 1/2 million dollars' worth of G. M. stock, on which there will be a capital-gains tax of 25 per cent of the difference between what it cost him and the market price at the moment of this forced sale.

Disregarding Wilson's personal loss, however, it seems to me the Washington politicians, both Republican and Democratic, are taking a narrow, opportunistic, and demagogic view of what constitutes wealth. The senators forced President Eisenhower's hand and demanded that Wilson get rid of the stock simply because, they said, the federal government does business with General Motors. But G. M. stock is merely one form of wealth. Please name me any kind of wealth with which the federal government doesn't sooner or later do business.

Let us examine a report here on my desk regarding the personal finances of still another high federal officer-holder. She is Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, new Federal Security Administrator.

Mrs. Hobby, wife of the publisher of the Houston (Texas) Post, has resigned as that paper's executive vice-president, co-editor, and director, and from the boards of all other companies in which she is interested. But this report here on my desk tells me that when Mrs. Hobby appeared before the Senate Finance Committee the senators thought it was all right for her to keep the following personal wealth:

While serving in high federal office:
— 50 shares of El Paso National Bank stock at $60 a share.
— 876 shares of Republic National Bank stock, Dallas, at $60 each.
— 1,000 shares of Hilton Hotel corporation stock, $5 par, true value unknown.

— 2,000 shares of Southland Paper Mills, Inc., Lufkin, Texas, worth $65,000.

— Houston real estate worth $150,000 to $200,000.

— Assorted tracts of farm and oil land.

And her share of total community property as follows: 7,638 shares of preferred stock, par value $100 a share, and 4,319 shares of unlisted-value common stock, representing 52 per cent of all the stock in Houston's big morning newspaper — obviously worth several millions.

Now the government has intimate dealings with every national bank in America every day in the year; government people stop at hotels just like the rest of us; and every act of government has some effect on the office-holder's wealth whether it be invested in farm and oil lands or a metropolitan newspaper.

If we're going to be fair about this the same United States Senate which stripped Charles Wilson not only of his $600,000 salary but his 2 1/2 million dollars' worth of General Motors stock ought to make Mrs. Hobby get rid of her miscellaneous wealth, divorce her husband, and take a pauper's oath.

Nonsense, of course.

The cold facts are, that if personal wealth is to be a bar to federal office the government will automatically restrict public office to the theorists and the imprudent, not a very good omen for the citizens and taxpayers generally.

The truth is that the Senate politicians, both Republican and Democratic, simply singled out General Motors as a public whipping-boy. Its big and famous — and the attack was supposed to make votes for individual senators. I doubt that it was a low and dirty business.

The time-honored rule is that when a public official in the course of events comes to a "contract" touching on his personal holdings or disqualifies himself and has disinterested associates handle the matter for him. He is presumed to be personally honest or he wouldn't have been nominated for the office in the first place.

I presume Charles Wilson is just as honest as Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby — yet the senate politicians gutted Charles and let the lady keep possessions worth as much as his and perhaps more. . . . all because the company he had devoted his life to was big and famous.

There are more envious men in the United States than I supposed. A well informed citizen, ever expected.

Changes in Code Bill Brings Revise by Cherry

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Cherry today said he would have to revise the list of appointments he had planned to send to the Senate for confirmation as a result of an amendment to the fiscal code bill adopted by the Senate yesterday.

The amendment would prohibit members of boards and commissions from selling to the state under any circumstances.

As originally proposed they would have been allowed to submit sealed bids but would not have been permitted to pass on purchases by their agency on which their business firms were bidding.

Cherry said in view of the amendment "I may have to start all over" on proposed appointees to honorary boards.

He made the statement after a reporter asked whether appointments to the University of Arkansas.

Other Ike Appointments Face Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's cabinet was completed today when Charles E. Wilson took the oath of office as secretary of defense in the White House.

At the same time, Harold E. Stassen was sworn in as director of the Mutual Security Agency and former Gov. Val Peterson of Nebraska as an administrative assistant to the President.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee today gave unanimous approval to the nomination of Roger M. Kyes as deputy secretary of defense. The General Motors vice president had promised to sell all his extensive stock holdings that might conflict with the defense job.

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's nomination of former President James B. Conant of Harvard University as high commissioner to Germany appeared likely today to face a fight in the Senate.

Appointments of Conant and four others named to high diplomatic posts are being held up in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a tangle over the group's already-breach rule requiring an FBI investigation of all nominees.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) called the committee together to consider new procedure which Wiley told a reporter may speed up action. He wouldn't say what changes he has in mind.

At the same time, friends, said Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) may oppose Conant, partly because of a speech in Boston last April in which he had said:

Korean Vets Honored by Hope VFW

The Ramsey-Cargile VFW Post 4511 of Hope had a full house last night when they gave a dinner honoring returned Korean veterans, at Post Headquarters.

Syvelle Burke gave the invocation preceding the dinner. Master of ceremonies, C. V. Nunn, Jr., introduced distinguished visitors and presented the guest speakers.

Words of welcome were expressed by County Judge Ulysses Garrett and Mayor John Wilson.

Hugh Latta, Service Officer for the Department of Arkansas Veterans of Foreign Wars, was principle speaker. Mr. Latta expressed much concern over the general apathy towards the situation in Korea and explained that until the pressure of the united veterans organization was exerted upon members of the Congress that no provisions of rehabilitation, Veterans Administration services or G. I. Bill of Rights no provisions had been made for the many thousands of returning Korean veterans.

He also stated that the veterans of all wars both as organized veterans and as individual citizens, must wake up to the grave inroads being made upon our form of government by the communists in this country and abroad.

Honored guests of the evening included the following veterans: Elmer Smith, Eugene Collier, Paul Downs, Arliss Downs, Merlin Anderson, Mark Watterson and Chester Allen.

New members of the Post included Bill Routon, Robert Walker, Elbert May Jr., J. T. Baker and Hugh Garrett, Jr.

Mothers to March Thursday Night From 7 to 8

The Mother's march for polio funds will be held from 7 to 8 o'clock Thursday night. It was announced today by Chairman Andy Andrews.

Over 75 mothers will make the house to house canvass. Residents who want to give to help combat polio are asked to leave their porch lights on.

Thursday night the VFW will hold a barn dance at Fair park, starting at 8:30. All funds will be given to the March of Dimes.

Ex-Arkansan Takes 'Possums to Arizona

From a Phoenix, Arizona newspaper comes a clipping picturing a former Hope man and a couple of 'possums which he has transplanted from Arkansas to Arizona. The story, written by Ben Avery, follows:

By BEN AVERY
If anyone sees a 'possum dangling from the limbs of a tree in his yard in Phoenix, it won't be a hallucination.

It will be the real thing, thanks to S. M. White, Temple, shift foreman at the Crossett Steam Plant on the Salt River Power District.

It's a hobby of White's — trying to get opossums established in Arizona.

Maybe he just got a little homesick for 'possums. Anyhow, each year on his vacation, he goes back to his old home in Hope, Ark., and traps a few 'possums to bring to Arizona.

He estimates about 40 of his 'possums are at large in Arizona most of them between Tucson and Nogales, but the six he recently brought will be released in the vicinity of Horseshoe Dam.

At first the Arizona Game and Fish Commission frowned on the importation of 'possums, but after studying the matter became enthusiastic and White carries the proper permit.

He tries to release 'possums in various parts of the state and has been at it since 1927. They have been turned loose at such widely separated spots as Tucson, Alpine, and Sunflower.

There is one report of one of White's 'possums being killed by an astounded hunter.

The hunter was convinced there were no 'possums in Arizona. He thought he had come across something rare in the animal world, and was about ready to send the strange carcass to an eastern museum for identification when he found out about White's hobby.

Gas Truck Skids, Seven Homes Burn

LITTLE FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A gasoline-laden tanker skidded on an icy hill early today, overturned and exploded, setting fire to seven homes on the outskirts of this Central New York City.

Four homes burned to the ground. Firemen extinguished the flames in a fifth which was partially burned, and battled fires in the other two.

No casualties were reported. About 25 to 30 residents were driven out into the freezing rain, and later took shelter with neighbors and relatives.

The driver of the truck was Robert Michaels, 25, of Rochester. He escaped unhurt and was credited with arousing the occupants of the burning homes.

Michaels said he applied the brakes to his tractor-trailer as he came down the hill, but was unable to slow the vehicle. It was loaded with 4,800 gallons of high-test fuel.

Michaels said the truck tipped over as it rounded a sharp turn at the base of the hill at about 2:40 a.m.

He and another truck driver, Joseph Conate of Hudson Falls, aroused the sleeping residents.

Hanged for Murder Shot He Didn't Fire

LONDON (AP) — A 19-year-old Briton was hanged today for a murder shot he did not fire — despite a dramatic 11th-hour appeal for his life to Queen Elizabeth II.

The youth, Derek Bentley, took part in a holdup in which a policeman was killed. A companion, who actually fired the fatal shot, escaped with an indeterminate prison sentence because he was only 16 years old.

Bentley was hanged at grim Wandsworth Prison in the suburbs of London while a boiling, shouting crowd demonstrated outside the walls.

Shots Used to Try to Halt Burning Wells

By DOUGLAS STARR
Via Ship-To-Shore Phone
ABOARD A PATROL BOAT, in the Gulf of Mexico — Weary men battling two multimillion-dollar offshore gas well fires worked doggedly today to complete a metal boom to yank away a pipe spouting flaming gas dangerously near three other wells.

The boom was started after more than 30 shots from a 75-millimeter recoilless rifle failed to blow away the 11-inch thick steel pipe. More firing was scheduled today but the strategy was switched because the wind was expected to shift and endanger the platform from which four Army in fantrymen were firing the rifle.

One of the wells exploded Sunday and the other caught fire Monday. Both are on a wooden platform erected on pilings driven into the Gulf of Mexico 10 miles from the Louisiana coast and about 90 miles southeast of New Orleans.

Housing for about 50 senior high students is being sought by the Bandmothers Club for Friday night.

The students are members of two clinic bands representing towns in District four of the Arkansas School Band and Orchestra Association and are guests of the Hope band.

Lewisville entered some of its band late Monday, bringing the total number of towns represented to eleven. Besides Hope others are Nashville, DeQueen, Magnolia, Texarkana, Ashdown, Prescott, Gurdon, Arkadelphia and Sparkman.

Purpose of the two-day meetings is to give selected members of various bands the opportunity of playing new music and old under as near ideal conditions as possible. Guest conductor will be Joe Barry Mullins, Northeast State College, Monroe, Louisiana. He has wide experience both as a director and teacher.

Residents who can house one or more students Friday night are asked to contact Mrs. A. A. Halbert.

Woman Is First Traffic Fatality

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mrs. Lela Hand, 70, became Little Rock's first traffic fatality of the year when she died in a hospital here today.

Patrolman E. L. Grace said Mrs. Hand was injured Monday when she walked from behind a parked car into the path of an automobile driven by Mrs. Doug Romine, 30, of Little Rock.

Cold Fear of Revolution Is Spreading Chill Waves in Offices in Nation's Capitol

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The cold fear of a new revolution spreads in chill waves through government offices in the nation's Capital.

There's panic brewing on the Potomac. The big question there — already being echoed in business offices across the land — is: "Will Ike's boys kill the coffee break and the two-hour lunch?"

These threats to the present widely popular pauses in the day's occupation have been posed by two of President Eisenhower's clean-sweeping freshmen broom-holders.

Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay has laid down the ominous edict to his departmental employees: "A day's work for a day's pay." Already puzzled bureaucrats are asking themselves, "What does this mean?"

Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. has gone even farther. In his latest famous "Order No. 1" he declared that Justice Department employees would work "from 9 to 5:30 p. m., and that 'the hours of duty must be strictly observed.'"

Brownell attacked tardiness and the over-long lunch period, and said violators will be disciplined. Other cabinet officials are reported planning similar rules.

The Brownell order certainly dooms the two-hour lunch. But the Philadelphia lawyers among the minor bureaucrats are hopefully studying one sentence: "Unavoidable or necessary absence from duty not in excess of 30 minutes. . . . may be excused by the supervisor."

"Is this a loophole," they are asking, "which will still let us have a 15-minute morning and afternoon break for coffee?"

This clause may have to be referred to the Supreme court if it fails for decision. It is obviously far too important a matter for one man to decide.

It vitally affects more people than any problem yet dealt with by the new administration. Every statehouse, county courthouse, and city hall employee in America is concerned.

"If the federal bureaucrats lose their coffee breaks, we probably will, too, in time," they worry.

Every office and factory worker also has a stake in the answer. For if the coffee break is abolished for titlers in the government vineyard, it is likely to disappear in the business world as well. Don't business people always boast they work harder and longer than government people?

The issue is non-partisan. Republicans and Democrats are likely to agree that: "Some institutions, like matrimony and the coffee break, have become cherished parts of the American way. Let that new broom sweep away something else."

The government goal to abolish the two-hour lunch, of course, will have no effect on the business world. The problem of the business world is to cut down on the three-martini, four-hour lunch.

Truce Delegates Blamed for Red Prisoner Riots

By WENDELL MERICK

TOKYO, (UP) — Gen. Mark Clark's headquarters charged tonight that bloody uprisings in Communist prisoner of war camps, a "second front of the Korean war," were masterminded by the senior delegates of the Red truce delegation.

A hitherto secret intelligence report said that Red Truce Chief Gen. Nam Il — "a former Soviet officer and a USSR citizen of Korean extraction" — and his deputy Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Jo were responsible for uprisings they always have contemplated were spontaneous.

These included the kidnapping of Col. (then Brig. Gen.) Frances T. Dodd, camp commander on Kojima island, and a series of riots and escape attempts that left at least 315 prisoners and one American soldier dead and some 430 prisoners wounded.

The report said that "many prisoners captured by United Nations forces have admitted they were deliberate plants" to enter the camps and "carry out strikes, protests and demonstrations."

Administration Plan May Help End the War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The Eisenhower administration was reported authoritatively today to have well-advanced plans for trying to end the Korean and Indo-Chinese wars by denying Russia any 'advantages' from them."

Secretary of State Dulles, discussing this subject publicly for the first time since the new administration took power, told a national radio and television audience last night.

"Today, these wars go on because . . ."

Bodcaw Township First to Reach Farm Bureau Quota

Last year Bodcaw township of Patnots community was first in reaching its Farm Bureau membership quota. Monroe Kent directed the drive with 52 family memberships. The Patnots quota was 45 members.

The 1953 membership drive will kick off Monday evening, Feb. 2, at 7 o'clock at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle Recreation Hall with a dinner served by the Hopewell Home Demonstration Club, announced Oscar Hodnett, membership chairman and vice president of the county farm group which is affiliated with the Arkansas and American Farm Bureau Federation.

Mr. Hodnett says the interest is high among Farm Bureau folks in Hempstead County. The 1953 membership goal is 720 members which is the fair share of the Arkansas goal of 53,500 members.

Membership work in Farm Bureau is on a voluntary basis states Ned Purdie, president of the Hempstead County unit. The desire to assist all through the value of our broad mutual program is our workers reward. All members who want to take part in the membership extension program are requested to advise Mr. Hodnett, Ivan Bright, county secretary, or himself so that all may be properly arranged for at the kick off meeting.

More Chamber Committees Are Listed

Two more important committees of the Hope Chamber of Commerce are announced today by President Ben Owen.

The 1953 Budget Committee, which is concerned with the allocation of monies received by the Chamber of Commerce, Mike Kelly, Chairman, Robert LaGrone, and C. C. Lewis.

Certainly one of the most important committees of the entire organization is the Membership Committee. A great deal of thought and planning was given to the selection of workers on this committee. The growth in number of members of the Chamber of Commerce depends to a large degree upon this function of the membership committee.

At this time there are some 175 paying members of the C. C. but there is a potential of about 250 additional members. Co-Chairman have been selected to serve, Dewey Baber and Syvelle Burke, with Arch Wylie, Frank Horton, Albert Page, Ralph Montgomery, Luther Hollamon, Dr. Sam Strong, Royce Weisenberger, Jim Cole, Jim LaGrone, and Ray Turner.

Atomic Project in New Era of Super Weapons

Truman Again Baffles Congressmen

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Baffled congressmen, some of them angry, were asking themselves and each other today why the man from Independence said what he did about Russia and the atom.

They said that if he didn't know better, he should have.

They were still talking about former President Truman's statement to a press association (INS) that he is not convinced the Russians really have the A-bomb.

Informing atomic sources, congressional and executive, were unanimous in declaring there is absolutely no warrant for Mr. Truman's skepticism.

With that, a high member of the Eisenhower administration apparently is in agreement. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said in a television broadcast, delivered last night but recorded before publication of the former President's remarks, that the Communist world is equipped with "modern weapons that include atomic bombs."

Members of the House-Senate Energy Committee, privy by law to all information on matters nuclear, issued statements individually and in groups asserting flatly that Russia achieved the A-bomb in 1949 and has been stockpiling it ever since.

It is a fact of public record that Mr. Truman from the White House three times announced Soviet explosions, one in 1949 and two in 1951. It also is a fact that he referred to one of them as the explosion of "another atomic bomb."

Three key members of the congressional atomic committee issued a joint statement late yesterday.

Local Woman to Attend WOW School

Lucille Wall, of Hope, National Committeewoman and Stage Manager of the Supreme Forester Woodmen Circle in Arkansas will attend the Southern Training School for fieldworkers from Feb. 9 through the 11th at Edgewater Park, Mississippi.

The school will train fieldworkers from the states of Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi in the selling of life insurance, hospitalization, health and accident insurance to fit the needs of women and girls. The training school will be under the direction of National Vice President and Educational Director, Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy of Atlanta, Georgia, assisted by Mrs. Henrietta Sudder, National Second Vice President and Assistant Educational Director of Washington, D. C.

Miss Wall will give a book review of Frank Belter's "How I Raised Myself From Failure to Success in Selling" the afternoon of Wednesday, Feb. 2.

The Supreme Forester Woodmen Circle is managed by a board of directors composed entirely of women and insures only women and girls. Being a fraternal benefit society, membership provides financial activities for adults in organized graves throughout the U. S. supervised junior activities for young girls to age 18 and sorority life in the Tau Phi Lambda Society, affiliated with the Society, for young women from 18 to 30. The society has assets of over $49,500, 000 and over $125 million insurance in force.

Ten Years Bring Big Change Reports AEC

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON, (UP) — The U. S. atomic project, just turned 10, is plunging into a new era of super weapons and super power.

That is the gist of the Atomic Energy Commission's 13th semi-annual report to Congress, issued today.

Nothing that the first decade of atomic development came to as close in the six months covered by the report, the AEC added:

"In more than a symbolic sense, this latest half-year has witnessed the crystallization of important lines of exploration, research, and development that began earlier in the decade."

The commission wasn't talking of H-bombs only. It was talking also of new and better A-bombs, atomic power for warships, atomic power for airplanes, and atomic power for industry.

The AEC did not amplify its previous guarded statements about last November's gigantic hydrogen test at Eniwetok in the Pacific, except to note that Mr. Truman in his last State of the Union message as president pointed out the "high and noble significance" of that message.

In that message, earlier this month, Mr. Truman called the Eniwetok results "world-shaking." He proclaimed "a new era of destructive power."

Okay Cement Plant Worker Electrocuted

Herbert Loyall Phillips, aged 43, a worker for the Okay Cement Plant at Okay was electrocuted Monday when he came in contact with a live wire while working on an electric shovel.

He was working alone at the time of the accident. Phillips, a well known youth, Arkansas semi-pro baseball player, did not respond to artificial respiration.

It was the first fatal accident at the cement plant since the construction days of 1928-29.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Jimmy and Herbert Loyall III, two daughters, Ida Virginia and Sara Elise Phillips, five brothers, three sisters and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Phillips of Holt, Oklahoma.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. today at Saratoga with burial in Saratoga Cemetery.

Has Faith in Puerto Rican Division

SEOUL, (AP) — The commander of the U. S. 3rd Division voiced confidence today in the division's Puerto Rican regiment in which nearly 100 men were mustered in for "flea" from battle or refusing to go into action.

Maj. Gen. George W. Smythe said he felt the 93rd Regiment had done an "outstanding job" in Korea and that he "certainly intended" to put the unit back into the line.

"I have confidence in the men and their leaders and I feel that it will enhance the traditions of this division to have them go back into the line," Smythe said.

The regiment was put back into the line last December but was pulled back again soon thereafter. Ninety-two enlisted men and one officer, all Puerto Ricans, were convicted by court martial trial ending last week of misbehaving in the face of the enemy. They are held in the Rusan Army stockade.

day about the first Soviet bomb test.

"Perhaps never in the history of intelligence has such clear-cut evidence been examined so exhaustively as often to arrive at the same simple and unavoidable conclusion," they said.

The conclusion was "that the Soviets had indeed tested a bomb."

Author of the statement were Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-M. Y.), House candidate for the committee chairmanship; Rep. Carl Albert (R-M.), former chairman; and Sen. Hiram B. Hiram (R-M.), former chairman and Senate candidate for the post in the 83rd Congress.

Why, in view of the 1949 and subsequent evidence, is Mr. Truman still skeptical? Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) of the Atomic Committee said what a lot of people are asking.

"I just don't understand Mr. Truman's remarks."

"The thing Americans need to know," Price said, "is that Russia does have atomic bombs—bombs that are deliverable and she has the means to deliver them."

awaiting Washington review of the trial.

Four enlisted men were acquitted. The trial of one still is pending.

The trial stepped from two positions that fell in the Central Front. Fifty-four of those convicted were involved in combat against the Communists in the Jackson Heights area Oct. 20 and 21. The other 40 were brought in (11) for leaving the scene while on a combat patrol Nov. 5.

The 5th Regiment, almost entirely Puerto Rican, except for some officers, has been fighting in Korea since November, 1950.

Another statement was made in a tape-recorded interview with a voice of America correspondent. It was released in Washington today.

Major William B. McMillan of Gainesville, Fla., division public information officer, said some of the Puerto Rican soldiers in the platoon leader and others who insisted they were helping wounded to the rear.

McMillan says this person at a news conference.

The 5th Regiment went back into the line Dec. 10 after it had been badly mauled at Kelly Hill in late September. Most of the men were veterans of the Kelly Hill action. The 5th and 8th Battalions were put on the line in the Jackson Heights area and the 1st Battalion was held in reserve. The Puerto Ricans took a heavy shelling the first day and on the second day repelled two attacks.

On Oct. 20, 1950, Company of the 5th Battalion was ordered to an outpost and reached the objective under moderate to heavy fire. However, men dropped out and as a result the company was "thin."

Charles Company was ordered forward and approximately the same time happened. Charles Company was ordered back and the 5th Battalion was ordered to re-attack. The 5th Battalion was ordered to move forward.

The 5th and 8th Battalions were pulled off the line for training. The 5th Battalion was ordered to the line and the 8th Battalion was ordered to the line.

The 5th Battalion was ordered to the line and the 8th Battalion was ordered to the line.

cause the enemy thinks he's getting an advantage by continuing the war. I believe that Gen. Eisenhower will find the way to make the enemy change his mind. He'll want peace."

Dulles statement was described authoritatively as being based upon plans for specific moves, although he gave no hint in his speech as to what those moves would be.

However, in a pre-election speech in October Dulles said Russia had an advantage out of continuing the Korean War by the fact that American troops are tied up there and by propagandizing the conflict as a campaign of American aggression against Asia. These advantages could be denied and the prospects for peace greatly advanced, he then said, by replacing American forces in Korea with South Korean troops.

the Board of Trustees were ready. Later Cherry declined any more specific comment on his attitude toward the 18 amendments the Senate lacked on to the fiscal bill yesterday.

By CARL BELL
LITTLE ROCK, Jan. 28 (AP)—The cautious Arkansas Senate appeared ready at last today to approve Gov. Cherry's plan for overhauling state fiscal operations and purchasing procedures.

Whereas the House rushed the measure through in a matter of minutes last week, senators have devoted three days to examination and revision of the bill.

Eighteen amendments—one of them vigorously opposed by Cherry—were tacked onto the measure yesterday as the Senate cleared the way for a vote on it as a special order of business this afternoon.

The House voted, 72-8, for a bill by Rep. Jack Oakes of Woodruff County and others to pay prosecuting attorneys maximum salaries in four classifications between $5,000 and $7,200 yearly. No prosecutor now is paid more than $5,000.

The House failed to pass a Senate-approved measure to exempt counties of under 10,000 population from some of the provisions of Initiative Act No. 1 of 1948, the county-wide school consolidation law.

A habitual criminal law was proposed in a bill introduced in the House by Rep. E. W. Brockman of Jefferson County. A penalty of up to life imprisonment could be meted out under the bill to a person convicted of a criminal offense for a fourth time.

Sen. Guy Jones of Conway introduced a joint resolution for a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age in Arkansas from 21 to 18 years.

The suggested amendment also would enable persons over 60 to vote without paying the poll tax. The proposals would be submitted to the people at the 1954 general election.

Jones also submitted a bill to levy a privilege tax on big pipelines. The University of Arkansas and state-supported colleges would get the proceeds from such a tax.

Both the House and the Senate received the general appropriations bill to make biennial allotments for the state's constitutional officers, Supreme Court, chancellors, circuit judges and prosecutors.

No other appropriation bill may be passed by the Legislature until after both houses have approved the general appropriations bill.

The House Cities and Towns Committee last night recommended a measure to tighten up on the prohibition against transportation of liquor and beer in dry territory.

The Senate bill would prohibit transportation of more than a gallon of whiskey or three gallons, or a case, of beer in any one vehicle.

Genette, who was following Michael's tractor-trailer, stopped when he saw it overturn.

Michael said "I was able to get out of the cab and then shouted to someone on the street to call the fire department."

"I pounded on doors and in some cases broke windows and the glass in doors in giving the warning to occupants of the houses," he added.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Pickling, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often called signs of Pin-Worms... only parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific outline carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge...

The small, easy-to-take tablets are perfect for famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

arch formed by seven-branched candelabra. Massed palms and fern were at the base of the arch and at either side were tall baskets of white gladioli and stock.

In keeping with a traditional wedding custom, the church bell rang when the bride party entered the church, and again when the bride and groom departed. Miss Doris Jean Colley of Henderson, soloist, sang "Always." "At Dawning" and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied by John Paul Woods of Kilgore, organist, who presented a prelude of nuptial music.

The candles were lighted by Miss Carolyn Connally and Bob Lovelady. Miss Connally's dress was of ice blue acetate taffeta, designed with fitted bodice, puff sleeves, full skirt, and lace trim. She wore a carnation in her hair.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ice blue broadcote taffeta gown, ballerina length, which was fashioned with moid bodice, decollete neckline and long fitted sleeves tapering to points at the wrists. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle cascaded from a shell cap of taffeta. She carried a white Bible topped with white carnations.

Miss Jerry Ann Turner of Kilgore, maid of honor, and Miss Patricia Hand, bridesmaid, were attired in identical dresses of navy blue tulle, styled with fitted bodice, standup collar, three quarter length sleeves, and full skirt with long gloves and carried colonial holders of blue carnations.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Carol Errett, wore a dress of ice blue tulle, designed with fitted bodice, puff sleeves, full skirt, and trimmed in lace. She carried a miniature colonial bouquet of baby blue mums. Master James Connally was junior groomsmen.

Jack Matthews of Nacogdoches was best man and Joel Osburn, nephew of the bridegroom, was groomsmen. J. C. Connally and John B. Long, brothers-in-law of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Norton, mother of the bride, wore a grey coat dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Osburn, mother of the groom, wore a dress of brown silk crepe with brown accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The table was laid with a white linen cloth and lighted with blue candles. The centerpiece was of small white mums. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. W. R. Crawford, grandmother of the bride, served the cake, and Mrs. Thomas Glass and Mrs. Jeff Millican, sister of the groom, presided at the silver service. Others in the house party were Mrs. John B. Long, and Mrs. J. C. Connally, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. E. A. Lewis.

After a short honeymoon, the couple will reside in Magnolia, Arkansas. For travel the bride chose a navy blue silk shantung suit, white hat, blouse and gloves, and other accessories of navy blue.

The bride is a graduate of Tyler High School, Tyler Junior College, and Stephen F. Austin College. She was a member of To-Kalon sorority at TJC, and a member of Annie and Debate Club at Stephen F. Austin College, where she majored in speech.

The groom now attends Southern State College at Magnolia. After receiving basic training at Fort Ord, California, he attended Demolition Specialists School at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, and served one and a half years with the 62nd Engineering Construction Battalion at Ft. Belvoir and Churchill, Canada, and two years with the 42nd Engineering Construction Battalion in Alaska.

Out of two guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Osburn, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Millican and Carolyn, Joel Osburn of Hope, Leonard Eddy of Magnolia, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Quinn of Beaumont, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. N. Rawlins of Longview, and Mr. and Mrs. Burton Crawford of Kilgore.

Walkout Forces A-Plant Closing

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., (AP) — Construction work on an addition to the gaseous diffusion atomic plant here came to a halt last night following yesterday's walkout of some 300 AFL operating engineers.

The project employs about 6,000 workers. Union officials were not available for comment but an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said the dispute is apparently over the engineers' objection to the contractor, Maxon Construction Company, using automatic pumps to bring water from low-lying areas of the project site.

THE FOREIGN POLICY

What most of the world sought to Eisenhower's first inaugural address were signposts of a new foreign policy. Most of the chancelleries of Europe were deeply puzzled by what they have found, because the nine points on the subject permit contradictory interpretations.

For instance, Point One, which is anti-war, adds a new phase of policy:

"... we stand ready to engage with any and all others in joint effort to remove the causes of mutual fear and distrust among nations, so as to make possible drastic reduction of armaments."

Does "any and all others" mean Spain, the Argentine, Formosa? The test is stated to be sincerity of purpose, but what is the test of sincerity? Can such a moral quality be judged among governments?

The abjuration of appeasement is Point Two. We shall not "barter gain (by) trading honor for security." Is that to be accepted as a renunciation of the China Policy of the State Department? Is the Marshall-Acheson policy, which dominated American official thinking from Teheran to the white paper on China, rejected forevermore? What effect does that have on our relations with Great Britain, which favors appeasement of Russia in Asia? Is this Eisenhower's reply to Churchill?

I do not understand Point Three in its relationship to our foreign policy. It seems to be a virtuous thought stuck in out of context. However, Point Four is a promise that while we recognize nationalism as a noble trait, it is not the intention of our government to turn all the world into Americans. This would be a reply to the Russian propaganda that we are an imperialistic nation that seeks to impose its ways, manners, ideas, and goods upon all people, including, according to the Russians, American movies and Coca-Cola. However, the recognition of nationalism, by the words, "identity" and "heritage," is another rejection of the object internationalism of the Truman era.

Point Five must really frighten the Europeans. Eisenhower promises aid but he limits it to "proven friends of freedom," which could mean India, which, thus far, has only proved its friendship for Soviet China. However, there are also these words: "... Likewise, we shall count upon them to assume, within the limits of their resources, their full and just burdens in the common defense of freedom." This is a challenge for the Europeans, who have gone very, very slow with NATO to come across with their share of the bargain. If they are combining these words as finely as I am, they might worry over Point Five. Maybe, that is what it is intended to do.

Point Six somehow contradicts Point Four. In Point Four, it was that we were not going to impress upon others our political and economic practices. But in Point Six, Eisenhower said:

"... we shall strive to foster everywhere, and to practice ourselves, policies that encourage productivity and profitable trade..."

How is this fostering to be done? Shall we show them how we do it or shall we underwrite their fall-

DOROTHY DIX Frowns On Child

Dear Miss Dix: In a few weeks I am marrying Fred, and I am afraid of trouble between him and my seven year old son, Larry. So far they have gotten along pretty well together, but there are indications that this felicitous state will not last. I have been a widow for four years, and since I had to work to support the boy, I boarded him with a family in the suburbs. Consequently, I saw him only on week ends. Now there is an adjustment to be made between my own son and myself. I have given up my job and in the few weeks I've had Larry to myself, I realize he has been babied. This is Fred's chief objection to him. He claims that Larry should be much more grown up, and is trying to push him too far. I feel that the adjustment should be made gradually. Fred feels Larry should begin to be independent at once. Larry gets along very well in school, has many friends, and has always made a favorable impression on adults.

OLIVIA II.

Answer: Larry seems to be in for a series of adjustments that would try the average adult. You are taking your re-acquired duties to motherhood too seriously. Fred is assuming the obligations of a stepfather with all the spirit of a born reformer, and poor Larry is in the middle trying to fathom the meaning of all the sudden activity around him.

The child has already gone through one great period of readjustment after his father's death, when he had to learn to do without both father and mother in a new family environment; now he is going through the whole process again. Both you and Fred should be more gentle with the boy and give him a chance to get his bearings. You wouldn't expect to uproot an adult and have him merge into new surroundings with no perceptible struggle; why expect a youngster to accomplish the impossible?

Before you marry Fred it should be clearly understood between you just exactly what your respective relations to Larry will be. Fred as the newly acquired father, certainly should have some say in the rearing and disciplining of the boy but his responsibility should not include tyrannical tactics. A seven year old is barely out of babyhood, and should not be expected to act like a man. The transition should come gradually, and if the child has been babied in his foster home, don't expect him to change overnight and suddenly become a self-possessed, self-reliant person. These things come through patient training, not suddenly.

Tact and Love Needed
Your little triangle has all the makings of a domestic tempest, and it will take tact and deep love to keep the angles in their proper places. There is almost always a difficult situation to overcome in second marriages that involve children, a natural jealousy exists between the child and step-parent, and each is inclined to regard the other as an interloper. Handling both of them in a manner to keep everyone pleased and happy is a grueling task for a woman.

Keeping in close touch with Larry's teachers will help you follow his progress, and she also will give you particular advice as to whether or not he is adjusted at his own age level. If, in the opinion of his teachers, he measures up to other children of his age, don't try to change him. Nature will take care of progression in her own divinely tested manner.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been going steady with a girl for almost half a year. I am 18 and she is recently 17. She'll be out of high school this year while I have still two years to go. Do you think I am too young to go steady? Why are girls' parents so unreasonable and old-fashioned? They do not want us to go steady. We can have dates only on week ends.

N. D. E.
Answer: Your extremely well-written letter certainly proves that you are more mature and intelligent than most boys of 18, and have earned the right to date a girl of your own age.

Parents who impose such restrictions, described by you as "old-fashioned," are really just guarding the welfare of their child. There is nothing unreasonable about that. Your girl has generous dating privileges and her parents are quite right to frown on "going steady" to your respective ages. You'll do well to cultivate some other girl, but if you insist on sticking to this one, prove your maturity by according to her parents' wishes.

Dear Miss Dix: What can I do to cure my husband of extremely bad table manners? He knows better, but seems to delight in humiliating the children and myself by his incoherent behavior. The children feel they cannot bring their friends to a meal.

C. H.
Answer: Make it a point in your every way to get into your family circle, to refuse to sit at the same table with your husband unless he observes the rudimentary rules of table etiquette. You and the children should have your evening meal before he comes home then let him eat alone. He's acting like a child, and should be treated as such.

White Sox Get Fain, Have Flag Dreams

CHICAGO, Ill. — Landing reliable Ferris Fain from the Philadelphia Athletics has pumped the Chicago White Sox full of 1939 pennant dreams.

General Manager Frank Lane today was in a state of high elation over his successful year-long attempt to reel in the 30-year-old first baseman who led American League batters with .344 in 1931 and .327 last season.

To get consistent hitting Fain, the thickest bit of trade bait that has been dangled for two years, the White Sox gave up their only proven long-ball hitter, first sacker Eddie Robinson.

That others were involved in the off-season's biggest baseball deal is somewhat inconsequential. The Sox also donated Bob Wilson, rookie second baseman who batted .289 for Indianapolis in the American Association in 1932. The Sox gave up outfielder Ed McGhee and infielder Joe de Maestri, both of whom were unsuccessful in previous stints with Chicago.

The relinquishing of Robinson, 32-year-old power, was viewed with some trepidation among White Sox fans who have thought all along that Fain was shopping for another long-ball hitter.

Robinson in the last two years has driven in twice as many as Fain, 221 to 111.

This fact gave rise to some speculation that perhaps Lane eventually would trade Fain, possibly to the New York Yankees for outfielder Hank Bauer and first baseman Joe Collins.

"We're not a farm club for the Yankees," snapped Lane. "I expect Fain to be our first baseman for the next five or six years. We started clerking for him a year ago and kept it up. Only in the last week did we offer Robinson in any such deal."

Lane said Fain will fit in perfectly. "With the definite program we've been planning at Comiskey Park for years in getting a pennant winner."

Seton Hall to Lay Record on the Line

By JOHN GRIFFIN
NEW YORK, (UP)—Unbeaten Seton Hall, the nation's No. 1 team, shoots for its 20th victory of the season and the Oklahoma Aggies risk their perfect Missouri Valley Conference record in leading college basketball games tonight.

Seton Hall, the only perfect-record squad left among "major" schools, is a heavy favorite to notch victory No. 20 in the game at South Orange, N. J., because the rival is Albright College, loser of five of its 10 games to date. But the pressure always is great on a "streaking" team.

The Oklahoma Aggies won their only league game to date, and will be favored to beat Albright in tonight's game at Stillwater, Okla. The Aggies, ranked seventh nationally, boast an impressive overall record of 12-3 against Wichita's 10-5.

In the same league, St. Louis, ranked 10th nationally, will be trying for its fourth win in five league games at home against Houston.

North Carolina State, ranked eighth nationally, meets Villanova tonight at Philadelphia in what promises to be one of the best games in the country. The Wolfpack will be trying to rebound from its surprise loss to North Carolina last Saturday, a loss which cost it a chance to take the Southern Conference leadership.

Villanova now is a much tougher squad than in the first half of the season. That's because Larry Hennessey, who averaged 21 points per game, is once again eligible after a one-term ban for playing an unauthorized outside game.

Other leading games tonight include Army-St. Michael's (Ga.), Wyoming-Colorado State, Fairleigh-Dreese Tech, Georgetown (D.C.)-Steen, Mississippi State-Howard College, Muhlenberg-Navy, and New Mexico-Texas Western.

Last night's court program was skinny because of mid-year examinations. In the top games, Manhattan scored its 11th triumph in 13 games, beating Providence, 68-72. Montana edged Montana State, 60-68, and Toledo defeated Kent State, 80-60.

Cotton Loop Writers Denounce Formula

NATCHEZ, Miss., (UP)—Sports Editor Norman Matthews of the Natchez Democrat predicted today that Cotton States League sports writers would not participate in the class C loop's all-star baseball game unless changes were made.

He said the League had "made a goof" of the writers who select the all-star players and he lashed at the League's new system for the game. Loop directors adopted the system at a meeting in Greenville, Miss., last Sunday.

In his column, Matthews said the system was unfair to the teams and the sports writers.

Under the new all-star setup, the team leading the League on July 4 will play a 16-man team picked by the writers from the other seven clubs. The date of the game is determined before the season starts and will be in Hot Springs, Ark., this year.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

Winter Housing for Dogs
By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

I had watched Al build the elaborate dog house for his dog. It was a shingled affair with an "A" roof and a little cupola centered on the top. After the last nail had been driven home and the paint brush was put into play and a couple of coats of white with green trim to match the roofing made it a dwelling of which the most snobbish dog could be proud.

But I was curious to know if Al considered the job finished. My curiosity became concern for the dog's welfare when the nights began to get really cold.

I met him at the store one day, and approached the subject as tactfully as I knew how.

"Quite a project you have there in that dog house," I said. "Is it finished and ready for occupancy?"

"This was really a stupid question for anyone could have seen that the dog had been living in the house for three weeks."

"Sure thing!" said Al. "Nothing but the best for Buck — double platform floor and plenty of room to move around in."

"That's right," I said, "plenty of room to move around in, but Al, that's the trouble with it."

"What's the trouble with it?" he blurted. "It's the best dog house in the neighborhood."

He would have liked to have continued, "And twice as good as those dinky houses you have for your dogs," but Al was too much of a gentleman.

"I know, Al," I said as soothingly as possible. "I don't doubt your good intentions and that you'd do anything for your dog, but let's consider that dog house logically for a moment."

By this time Al was simmering to a boil and I was kicking myself for lack of finesse.

"Look, Al," I said, "You've selected a good dry place on sloping ground for the dog house. You've double floored it and built it solidly. I notice that the roof hinges up to make it easy to clean and for summer ventilation."

"That's all excellent but there are three things wrong with it. The door is too large; it is exposed to the north wind; and the house is too large for your dog to keep it warm with his own body heat."

"If it were a smaller house, you could turn it around and put a vestibule on it. As it is you need only give it a quarter turn and put a snug net box inside with its opening at right angles to the door of the house. The net box should be big enough so that the dog can get in and out conveniently, but small enough so that he can keep it warm."

"I talked I could see the chip disappear from Al's shoulder. He wanted to do his best for his dog and the ideas were simple and logical."

"Red," he said to the owner of our neighborhood store. "How much for that wooden box?"

Polio Benefit Cage Game Thursday

The Hope National Guard basketball team plays the Arkadelphia Independents in a March of Dimes benefit in the high school gymnasium on Thursday night, starting at 8 o'clock.

Players for the Guards include Edsel Nix of U. of A., Doyle Nix, of SMU, Harvey Fullerton, Bill Douglas, W. E. McFarland and Dick Snell of Emmet, Roy Blackwood, Dennis Odum, Jim Ponder, Raymond Robinson and Donnell Bagley of Hope.

Seton Hall to Lay Record on the Line

By JOHN GRIFFIN
NEW YORK, (UP)—Unbeaten Seton Hall, the nation's No. 1 team, shoots for its 20th victory of the season and the Oklahoma Aggies risk their perfect Missouri Valley Conference record in leading college basketball games tonight.

Seton Hall, the only perfect-record squad left among "major" schools, is a heavy favorite to notch victory No. 20 in the game at South Orange, N. J., because the rival is Albright College, loser of five of its 10 games to date. But the pressure always is great on a "streaking" team.

The Oklahoma Aggies won their only league game to date, and will be favored to beat Albright in tonight's game at Stillwater, Okla. The Aggies, ranked seventh nationally, boast an impressive overall record of 12-3 against Wichita's 10-5.

In the same league, St. Louis, ranked 10th nationally, will be trying for its fourth win in five league games at home against Houston.

North Carolina State, ranked eighth nationally, meets Villanova tonight at Philadelphia in what promises to be one of the best games in the country. The Wolfpack will be trying to rebound from its surprise loss to North Carolina last Saturday, a loss which cost it a chance to take the Southern Conference leadership.

Villanova now is a much tougher squad than in the first half of the season. That's because Larry Hennessey, who averaged 21 points per game, is once again eligible after a one-term ban for playing an unauthorized outside game.

Other leading games tonight include Army-St. Michael's (Ga.), Wyoming-Colorado State, Fairleigh-Dreese Tech, Georgetown (D.C.)-Steen, Mississippi State-Howard College, Muhlenberg-Navy, and New Mexico-Texas Western.

Last night's court program was skinny because of mid-year examinations. In the top games, Manhattan scored its 11th triumph in 13 games, beating Providence, 68-72. Montana edged Montana State, 60-68, and Toledo defeated Kent State, 80-60.

Cotton Loop Writers Denounce Formula

NATCHEZ, Miss., (UP)—Sports Editor Norman Matthews of the Natchez Democrat predicted today that Cotton States League sports writers would not participate in the class C loop's all-star baseball game unless changes were made.

He said the League had "made a goof" of the writers who select the all-star players and he lashed at the League's new system for the game. Loop directors adopted the system at a meeting in Greenville, Miss., last Sunday.

In his column, Matthews said the system was unfair to the teams and the sports writers.

Under the new all-star setup, the team leading the League on July 4 will play a 16-man team picked by the writers from the other seven clubs. The date of the game is determined before the season starts and will be in Hot Springs, Ark., this year.

Winter Housing for Dogs
By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

I had watched Al build the elaborate dog house for his dog. It was a shingled affair with an "A" roof and a little cupola centered on the top. After the last nail had been driven home and the paint brush was put into play and a couple of coats of white with green trim to match the roofing made it a dwelling of which the most snobbish dog could be proud.

But I was curious to know if Al considered the job finished. My curiosity became concern for the dog's welfare when the nights began to get really cold.

I met him at the store one day, and approached the subject as tactfully as I knew how.

"Quite a project you have there in that dog house," I said. "Is it finished and ready for occupancy?"

"This was really a stupid question for anyone could have seen that the dog had been living in the house for three weeks."

"Sure thing!" said Al. "Nothing but the best for Buck — double platform floor and plenty of room to move around in."

"That's right," I said, "plenty of room to move around in, but Al, that's the trouble with it."

"What's the trouble with it?" he blurted. "It's the best dog house in the neighborhood."

He would have liked to have continued, "And twice as good as those dinky houses you have for your dogs," but Al was too much of a gentleman.

"I know, Al," I said as soothingly as possible. "I don't doubt your good intentions and that you'd do anything for your dog, but let's consider that dog house logically for a moment."

By this time Al was simmering to a boil and I was kicking myself for lack of finesse.

"Look, Al," I said, "You've selected a good dry place on sloping ground for the dog house. You've double floored it and built it solidly. I notice that the roof hinges up to make it easy to clean and for summer ventilation."

"That's all excellent but there are three things wrong with it. The door is too large; it is exposed to the north wind; and the house is too large for your dog to keep it warm with his own body heat."

"If it were a smaller house, you could turn it around and put a vestibule on it. As it is you need only give it a quarter turn and put a snug net box inside with its opening at right angles to the door of the house. The net box should be big enough so that the dog can get in and out conveniently, but small enough so that he can keep it warm."

"I talked I could see the chip disappear from Al's shoulder. He wanted to do his best for his dog and the ideas were simple and logical."

"Red," he said to the owner of our neighborhood store. "How much for that wooden box?"

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (UP)—The cloud is not much bigger than a skillet at the moment, but we have a deep down feeling after reading the latest news from Australia that it's touch and go whether the next Olympic Games will be held at Melbourne. This country could get them yet.

There plainly has been a great change since we were in Melbourne just over three weeks ago and had an extended talk with Arthur W. Coles, the big shot industrialist who had been cozened into taking on the enormous task of organizing the 1956 carnival.

Coles, retired and wealthy, accepted the job only because he felt he was needed and that he would be given pretty much of a free hand in untangling what was fast developing into an uncoordinated mess. In the brief time between his appointment and when we saw him, Coles felt he had made a great deal of progress and he was confident he had the thing licked.

The particular apple of his eye was a great new stadium which was to begin rising soon at the old Carlton footballground. The job of razing the old stands already had begun.

Coles was happy that the men who control a sprawling old cricket ground in the center of the city had ruled against holding the Olympics on their property. He felt it was better that Melbourne should have a fine new stadium.

Now, less than a month later, we read that they apparently are right back where they started. Having learned that Coles is dead serious about building a stadium, the cricket fathers have decided that, after all, it would be peachy to have their ramshackle old plant rebuilt and made pretty for the games.

This presents, incidentally, more of a problem than just erecting a new stand to replace the ancient structures on one side of the field which went up originally during Queen Victoria's reign. The cricket ground isn't anywhere level. One side of the field is, in fact, a dozen feet higher than the other.

Coles didn't anticipate any difficulty with the state of Victoria's new laborite government about obtaining promised funds for building the new stadium, but we note that Premier John Cain has ordered work halted pending conferences with the cricket crowd. There is strong opposition from some quarters to building anything in Australia at this time except low-cost housing.

The only comment reported to have been made by Coles was the cryptic remark that "instead of the games we now have a site argument." That sounds like a man who was getting fairly well filled up. Coles was his hope. The day he decides he's had enough will be a bad one for the Aussies.

TCU Doing Fine Without Mr. McLeod

By DICK HARDWICK
FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Texas Christian lost hope when it lost George McLeod.

The towering blond center had scored 470 points, 213 of them in the Southwest Conference. He led TCU to 24 wins out of 28 starts and an 11-1 loop record. So his graduation was a basketball tragedy.

Yet today TCU stands in real contention for the championship again. If it beats Southern Methodist Friday night in Dallas, it will move into a tie for first place with Baylor.

Buster Brannon is regarded as probably the shrewdest coach in the league.

But he also had the foresight last year to groom McLeod's replacement, 6 foot 7 inch Henry (Hank) Ohlen.

Ohlen, an A student in the classroom, is A-plus on the court.

The big junior scored only 90 points last year as he rode the bench most of the time while McLeod dominated the pivot position. But he apparently saw enough action to get a clear picture of the basket.

He has hit for 60 points in four conference games this year to the first real year 'round, heavy-duty motor oil for high-compression engines

...HELPS KEEP NEW CARS NEW!

HERE'S HOW UNIFLO PREVENTS DEPOSITS THAT CAUSE ENGINE "KNOCK"

UNIFLO MOTOR OIL

These photos show the tops of two pistons from new cars of the same age and make operated under identical conditions...except that different motor oils were used in the crankcases. Look at the amazing difference! The piston lubricated with UNIFLO is much cleaner, and only has a light deposit. The piston on the right, which was lubricated with a conventional type of high-quality motor oil is caked with heavy carbon-type deposits which can raise octane requirements and eventually cause severe knocking.

Until now, carbon deposits have reduced the efficiency of new engines after a few thousand miles... often causing knock. Uniflo checks the accumulation of these deposits in a clean engine—helps keep it running like new. This feature plus its great ability to reduce wear makes Uniflo the ideal oil for modern tight-fitting high-compression engines. Uniflo was developed only for such engines—in older cars, our other fine motor oils will give full protection.

UNIFLO is an entirely new idea in engine protection. It replaces the different grades of motor oil many motorists have had to use in different seasons of the year—giving you one all-around motor oil for all temperatures. In winter, you get easy quick starts with less drain on your battery. Yet at engine temperatures of 350° or more, Uniflo gives your engine outstanding lubrication protection. If your car is new or in A-1 shape, keep it that way with Uniflo!

Hope Takes 2 Games From Guernsey

Five Hope teams were supposed to play ball last night but only three found opponents and one was defeated.

The Bobcats and Bobkittens went over to Prescott only to find that the Wolves were playing Guernsey. It was a schedule mixup with Hope showing a return game with the Nevada five. The Wolves' schedule showed Guernsey so the Bobcats came home.

Meanwhile on the home court Hope Junior girls eked out a 20 to 27 win over Guernsey while the 12 boys barely edged the Guernsey lads 52 to 51. Guernsey's senior girls handily downed the Hope girls 41 to 32.

It stood in third place among the boys' high scorers behind Baylor's John Starkey and Gene Schwinger of Rice.

His looping back shot has accounted for 202 points, third best again to Schwinger, with 242, and Stakely, with 207.

Ohlen reached near perfection last week in TCU's 69 to 60 victory over the pre-season co-favorite, Rice, a game the Frogs almost had to win to stay in the title picture.

The sandy-haired stringbean hit 12 times from the field and seven times from the free throw line for 31 points. His shooting put Rice in a hole from the opening tip-off and gave TCU the biggest upset thus far in conference play.

The point total, Ohlen's highest of the year, boosted his average to almost 17 points in 12 games.

He has had only two bad games. In the opener, he scored only three points against Hardin-Simmons and Texas held him to eight points in the first conference game at Austin three weeks ago.

In TCU's other 10 games, however, Ohlen's output hasn't dropped below 13 points. Texas Christian's victory over Rice twisted the conference picture into a hard knot and TCU was tied with three other teams for third place.

If TCU beats Southern Methodist as expected, it could be the starting push toward TCU's second
